

SBFM Limited Cookie Policy

Our website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users of our website. This helps us to provide you with a good experience when you browse our website and also allows us to improve our site.

A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that we store on your browser or the hard drive of your computer if you agree. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive.

The purpose of these cookies are to:

- Estimate our audience size and understand how our website it used.
- Improve the functioning of the website and therefore your user experience. For example, we may:
 - store information about your browsing preferences, and so allow us to customise our site and to provide you with offers that are targeted to your individual interests;
 - use cookies to speed up your searches;
 - to enable us to recognise you when you return to our site.
- allow you to use our site in a way that makes your browsing experience more convenient, for example, by allowing you to store items in an electronic shopping basket between visits. If you register with us or complete our online forms, we will use cookies to remember your details during your current visit, and any future visits provided the cookie was not deleted in the interim.

Except for essential cookies, all cookies will expire after 13 months.

Please note that third parties may also use cookies, over which we have no control. These named third parties may include, for example, advertising networks and providers of external services like web traffic analysis services. These third-party cookies are likely to be analytical cookies or performance cookies or targeting cookies:

Internet users can block the recording of cookies by configuring their web browsers. If these settings linked to the use of cookies are configured, certain functionalities of the site may no longer work properly, and SBFM Limited cannot be held liable for this.

However, if you use your browser settings to block all cookies (including essential cookies) you may not be able to access all or parts of our website.